Google the new social network for Minesoft?

The latest development from the search giant Google, is rapidly gaining popularity in social media circles, and Robert Scoble - 4:01 PM (edited 4:23 PM) - Hangout - Limiter

Although Minesoft is still in the early ages of social networking, we aim to add value to the company for current and potential clients by creating effective channels of communication.

now Minesoft is looking at joining the Google+ network.

The Google+ phenomenon is a result of numerous attempts by Google to perfect their own social channel of communication. What makes Google+ different from other online social networks is the ability to divide work, family and personal friends into different circles of communication instead of one big list of friends.

At the moment Google+ is still in it's limited field trial period. After initial testing is over Minesoft looks forward to giving it a go and inviting clients to join our new social network. Minesoft Stock uses the Samsung Galaxy tab lot of websites that run on flash, that can make browsing the web frustrating. The Galaxy Tab includes Flash Player 10.1, so you can access those Flash-enabled sites. This does slow things down a bit, but it's far better than not being able to access them at all.

Overall we find that the Galaxy tab is a reliable mobile web enabled device that works well with the Minesoft Stock software (find out more about Minesoft Stock in our
